

Deer Mountain Fire Protection District

Emergency Medical Services

As of May 1st, 2021, the Deer Mountain Fire Protection District Emergency Medical Services was restored to operational capacity for the Deer Mountain, Cotopaxi and Texas Creek areas.

Both the Basic Life Support ambulances are fully licensed through Fremont County with one (1) ambulance stationed at Deer Mountain Main Station and one (1) ambulance stationed at Cotopaxi Station #2.

The Emergency Medical Services is staffed by EMT's with IV certifications and Emergency Medical Responders. In addition, many members of the Deer Mountain Fire Protection District are designated 1st Responders.

The Deer Mountain Fire Protection district provides primary care and transportation to either Heart of the Rockies Hospital in Salida, Colorado or Saint Thomas More Hospital in Canon City, Colorado.

In addition, Deer Mountain Emergency Medical Staff have access to Flight for Life air ambulance and Reach air ambulance. They are utilized several times a month.

The only personnel who can request any air ambulance for service must be with a Fire Department, Ambulance Service or Law Enforcement Agency. Private citizens cannot request air ambulances.

The mission of the Deer Mountain Fire Protection District Emergency Medical Services is to provide the highest possible quality care, treatment and transportation for citizens of the district and visitors to the district.
